

Smart Aviation Group Europe

Teaser Project Green Flight

Institut für Europäische Wirtschaftsförderung

www.smartaviationgroup.eu

info@osware.nl

Institut für Europäische Wirtschaftsförderung; EWIV

<https://institut-eu.com/de/>

mail@institut-eu.com

Innovative, unique, for the sake of the environment!

Why innovative? Many partners from different areas cooperate to bring their ideas, technology and innovations into a joint project. Each partner can achieve his/hers own benefit with this so far unique project, because here both the environment and the economic efficiency go hand in hand!

Better results, higher profitability for your airport?

Yes! Besides all the advantages of our software solution for airports, we take the next step by attracting more passengers, developing more business and implementing a complete new approach to sustainable travelling while re-introducing the joy of travelling for the passengers.

The goal is to increase airport efficiency and focus on the transformation into a zero-emission airport. We fully support and promote the use of zero-emission aircraft and we demonstrate to the public that zero-emission travelling is realistic and attainable. In this way our members will attract more business and more flights while helping the common cause: 'saving the environment'.

Interested? European cooperation, you as a pilot project:

This project is led by a group of enthusiastic companies from different backgrounds and are highly motivated to successfully develop and launch this Smart Aviation Green Flight project. This group already includes various partners. Partners who come from a wide variety of areas, from airports that are allowed to function as a pilot project (so to speak, as “innovators”), airlines, suppliers, universities, colleges, etc. can strengthen the group here. The group is supervised by the Institute for European Economic Development. The institute has experience in setting up European cooperations and ensures that partners can also use European funds to put the idea into practice.

We all believe that teamwork and communication set us apart and make us successful.

This teamwork is focused on a common goal: we do our best to create a better environment for the future generation and bring it to market through sustainable solutions that we develop together.

Our goal is to transform airports into a zero-emission place by using proven technologies combined with new developments. With this we can realize the net-zero goals of 2050 NOW.

“The world is changed by your example, not by your opinion.”

—Paulo Coelho—

Interested?

We would be pleased if we have aroused your interest. If you intend in taking part in this European project, please just send us an email to mail@institut-eu.com or send us a reply to today's email. We will then contact you shortly and discuss further steps.

Best regards,

Sietse Jan Holtrop

Managing Director Institute for European Economic Development; EWIV